

Fort Wayne Sentinel.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1854.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Supreme Judge, 4th District,
ALVIN P. HOVEY, of Posey County.
For Secretary of State,
MEHEMIAH HAYDEN, of Rush County.
For Treasurer of State,
ELIJAH NEWLAND, of Washington Co.
For Auditor of State,
JOHN P. DUNN, of Perry County.
For Superintendent of Public Instructions,
W. M. C. LARABEE, of Pulaski County.
For Congress,
E. M. CHAMBERLAIN, of Elkhart Co.
SENATE—Allen and Adams—
RAMUEL L. RUGG, of Adams Co.
Prosecuting Attorney, 10th Circuit,
E. R. WILSON, of Wells Co.
Representative, Allen Co.,
W. S. HOAGLAND.
Sheriff—O. MURD.
Treasurer—O. BILD.
Co. Com'r, 2d District—Wm. T. DAILEY.

GRAND RALLY

of the Democracy of Indiana.
A grand Democratic Mass Meeting will be held at Indianapolis, on Wednesday, September 6th.

Hon. STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS, of Illinois; Hon. GEORGE E. PUGH, of Ohio; Hon. C. BRACKEN, of Kentucky; and other distinguished democrats have been invited and are expected to be in attendance. The Democracy of Indiana are invited to participate. By order of the Democratic State Central Committee, W. G. BROWN, Gen.

DEATH OF JOSEPH SINCLEAR BSO.

We are pained to announce the sudden death of our old friend Joseph Sinclear Esq. Clerk of the Allen Circuit Court, which occurred at an early hour yesterday forenoon. He had been suffering from a slight attack of fever for two or three days previous, but on retiring to rest on Thursday night felt better. During the night he was seized with cholera, and in a few hours was a corpse.

We have known him long and intimately—ever since we first settled here—a period of 21 years. During all that time he ever proved an earnest and sincere friend, and a truly honorable, generous man. Few among us can boast more warmly attached friends, and none will be more generally and deeply lamented. He was a man of sound judgment and vigorous intellect; of an amiable, affable disposition, warm hearted, liberal and generous to a fault, and he had intercourse with him without admiring and esteeming him. His many acts of kindness to those who sought his aid will long be gratefully remembered. His loss leaves a void in our midst that will never be filled. The grief for his sudden demise is general, and his bereaved family have the warmest sympathies of all. We feel his loss too deeply to be able to present to you such a tribute to his memory as his many virtues deserve. We leave the duty to more able hands.

His remains were followed to the tomb this morning by a large concourse of sorrowing friends. The deceased was a native of western New York, and in 1833 emigrated to this place. His age was about 41. In the very prime of life he has been cut short in his career of usefulness, and his sudden death is a solemn admonition to his friends of the uncertainty of life.

Fort Wayne, Leaven & Platte Valley Railroad.—The application to Congress for a donation of lands in aid of this great national work failed, owing to the impossibility of getting the bill acted upon at this session. The road was quite a favorite work with the members, and all who examined the proposed route were satisfied that it presented favorable claims for national aid. If the bill could have been reached, it would undoubtedly have passed. This failure, coupled with the stringency of the money market and the impossibility of raising funds on any description of railroad securities, has delayed the prosecution of the work; but the directors still imagine that ere long they will be able to make a vigorous commencement of the work of construction. The money market is becoming more easy, and there can be no doubt that capitalists will, as soon as public confidence can be restored, eagerly avail themselves of the opportunity of investing in the securities of this company.

A joint meeting of the several boards of directors will shortly be held at Lacon, Illinois, to take into consideration the prospects of the road, and devise measures for its early construction.

Is there any Whig Party in Indiana?—We have not noticed a single account of a whig meeting or convention in this State, or any whig candidate announced. They are all "People's Meetings" and "People's candidates." How is this? Is the whig party really defunct? If so, have the members been transferred, like a stock of old goods, to the new organization?

This assumption of the term "People's" by the new organization, is one of the vilest humbugs of the day. The result of the election will prove that the people have but little to do with it. It is a heterogeneous mixture of odds and ends, factions and fractions, abolitionists, know nothings, prohibitionists, and perhaps a few whigs and disappointed democrats. Their candidates are a confused mixture of all these—a lot of greedy office seekers who hope to raise such a seething of the political cauldron as will throw them, like scum, to the top.

This is what the new self-styled People's party is composed of. Can the old whig party—men who have followed Clay and Webster, and claimed "all the talents and all the decency"—stoop so low as to become the mere tools of this new faction? We think better of them: Neither of their political leaders, if yet alive, would stoop to such a degradation, or counsel their friends to do so. They would protest against being transferred, like cattle in the market, to any such purchasers; and we firmly believe the more patriotic and enlightened portion of their followers will pursue the same policy. If the whig party is dissolved, its best members must certainly prefer to act with the great national democratic party, rather than to be absorbed in the sectional, fanatic and "burn, plunder and burn" party.

One of these new fangled weak inventions of the "People's" party, is the "People's Meetings," to be held at the Court House in this city, to-day, for the purpose of nominating candidates for office.

Kosciusko, Noble, and Whitley Senatorial Convention.—At a democratic convention held at Albion on Wednesday last, S. E. Alvord of Noble Co., was nominated candidate for the State Senate. We will publish the proceedings in our next.

Can Brother Berry, of the Whitley Pioneer, inform us why he neglected to furnish us a copy of the proceedings of the Congressional Convention, of which he was the Secretary? We certainly ought to have had them before this.

Know Nothings Completely Routed.

At the election for City Clerk, last Monday, the Know Nothings were awfully defeated, and exposed their weakness in a manner that will hereafter lessen their power for mischief. Bragg has been their favorite game, and by false boasts of their great numerical strength, they have calculated largely on drawing in recruits. But the veil is removed; they have shown their weakness, and proclaimed to the world that they can only raise 170 votes in this city; and, after all their vaporing, that is all their strength. The unfortunate editor of the Times is frank at the exposure, and raves over it even more insanely than usual.

Mr. A. J. Enrick was only announced as the democratic candidate last Saturday. Mr. Hock, the candidate of the Know Nothings, had been before the public some time, and, of course, his party was fully organized, and able to bring out their full strength. The following is the grand result:

	A. J. Enrick	T. W. Hock	W. P. Stevens
1st Ward,	57	29	4
2d "	72	46	8
3d "	30	10	5
4th "	99	43	8
5th "	14	21	5
6th "	21	19	3
	293	170	33

Enrick's majority.....123!

A Bait Falseness.—The Times, in its incoherent ravings over the Waterloo defeat of the Know Nothings in this city, last Monday, charges that Rev. Mr. Faller, the German Catholic priest, brought a drove of his communicants to the polls, in the 3d Ward. This, like most of the editor's charges, is an unmitigated falsehood. We are authorized by Mr. Faller to deny the charge, and offer a reward of one hundred dollars to any man who can prove to us that he has brought a drove of his communicants to the polls, in the 3d Ward. We will pay him when he produces the proof.

Mr. Faller took no part in the election, further than to deposit his vote at the polls of the ward in which he resides. We have been favored with a list of the officers of the Know Nothings in this city. They are just such a set of men as might be looked for in such an association, and if they are to be taken as a fair sample of the native citizens, all unprejudiced persons will admit that a liberal mixture of foreign blood would not at all deteriorate the breed. They are themselves the strongest argument against the principles they contend for.

From the early President down to the notorious jackal who drums up recruits, there is not a man among them who is entitled to public confidence or respect, or fit for any thing better than to belong to the narrow minded, intolerant association they have established amongst us. Let the unwary take heed how they connect themselves with such a gang. In six months there cannot be a man found who would be willing to own that he had ever belonged to the association. Darnum might make a grand speculation by securing these worthless to exhibit to a wondering world as genuine specimens of Native American Know Nothings.

Eleventh Congressional District.—JAMES R. SLACK, Esq. of Hamilton is the democratic candidate for Congress in the saddle-bag district, and we sincerely hope may be elected. He is a young man of fine talents and undoubted democracy—just such a Representative as his constituents might be proud of, and could send to Washington with the full assurance that he would aid and faithfully discharge his duties to them and his country.

His opponent, nominated by the fusionists, is Judge John U. Pettit of Wabash, a man who firmly professed to be a democrat—a was a delegate to the Baltimore Convention, aided in nominating Gen. Cass, came home, apostasized to fusionism, and was put on the Van Buren electoral ticket. He was afterwards appointed to a consular position in South America by Mr. Fillmore. He is a very fit specimen of a fusionist, but totally unworthy of a seat in Congress.

George E. Gordon of Wabash, an old fashioned whig, is also a candidate. Friend Slack has rather a hard row to hoe in his district, but we have strong hopes of his election. The free soilers and abolitionists are numerous and active there, but if the democrats do their duty they can elect their candidate.

The Weather continues oppressively hot. On Sunday last, we had a fine shower, not enough, however, either to be of much benefit to the parched vegetation or to cool the atmosphere.

The drought appears to be almost general, and as far as we can judge from the accounts, we have suffered less here than in most other places. South of us, the corn is not expected to be more than half a crop. In the States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee, the deficiency in this crop is estimated at 150,000,000 bushels! While the farming community are thus compelled to suffer loss, all other classes will more or less participate in it. It must have a depressing effect upon every description of business—it will materially check the progress of improvement throughout the country—prices of real estate, of horses, cattle and hogs will depreciate in the region of the drought, and prices of provisions will go up to a high figure in the principal markets of the country—railroads, steamboats and vessels upon the lakes will have less to do. In a word, every interest, great or small, must come in for a share of the loss resulting from the failure of this great staple of our country.

Scientific American.—We direct attention to the prospectus for the new volume of this truly valuable periodical. Every mechanic and scientific man ought to subscribe for it. Published by Munn & Co., 128 Fulton street, New York, at $2.00 per annum.

The Maine Law in Maine.—A great deal is said by certain fanatics in this State, in favor of the Maine law, and we are told that its enactment and enforcement have worked wonders in that wonderful State. The papers printed in Maine tell a different story, and from what they say, we are of opinion that the advocates of the law knowingly try to deceive our citizens as to its practical workings. Take for example the following from the Portland (Maine) Advertiser. Notwithstanding the fact that we do not see that even the capital of the cold water State is much more temperate than were here, and hence we see no great benefit has resulted from the passage of the pharisaical Maine Law.

"Drunkards at Agassiz.—We regret to see that in the Garden Journal, that the late 4th in August was decorated by drunkenness in every part of the city. The Journal says: 'It commenced early in the forenoon, and throughout the entire day, a visitor could take no place where his eye or ear would not be offended by the profanity, vulgarity and quarrelling of drunkards. We were told that all the Sunday school children from the public houses down to the lowest day-boys dispersed their liquors openly and freely. The fruits were exceedingly disgusting—a disgrace to the city, and the State, of which (unfortunately, as we thought that day) it is the seat of government.'—Portland (Maine) Advertiser.

How it works in Rhode Island.—By the following it will be seen that the much lauded Maine Law is as great a humbug in Rhode Island as in Maine. And yet by the advocacy of this humbug, the fusionists in Indiana are seeking to wheedle demagogues to their party, and vote the Abolition. Know Nothing ticket. Can any one be simple enough to be caught by such a shallow device?

The Maine Law in Rhode Island.—A gentleman of this city, who is sojourning at Newport sends us the 'bill of fare' of one of the hotels, in which are the names of over forty different liquors with the prices per bottle. Not only does it appear that spirituous liquors are openly sold, but what is rather queer, notices are given that 'gentlemen drinking their own wine' will be charged seventy-five cents per bottle. This is the most refined contempt of law that ever came under our notice. The gentleman who sent this bill is a very regular drinker of the Maine Law in this city—where the tiddlers are beating a retreat from the end of one day to the other. I expressed my surprise to a citizen of the place, who replied that as long as the city sold it by agents, it was impossible to restrain its sale by individuals. That everything was sold by agents, and that the agents who wished—and the consequence was a complete letting down of the bars, in all directions.—New Haven Recorder.

Important to Agriculturists.—It will be recalled that, during the fair of the Mechanics' Metropolitan Institute, in the Patent Office, Mr. Glover, of New York, exhibited several cases of artificial garden and orchard fruits, so closely resembling the real thing, that the judges were really deceived. He represents, on a head of wheat, and on the grain panes, the insects which are most dreaded by the farmers, and to that effect, in carrying out the investigation, he gives the appearance of the larva of the worm, and the insect, and the fruit, and the whole, so that a good look at the anatomy of the enemy in its several stages of being. So of apples, pears, corn, tobacco and cotton, and other products of the farm. In fact, we have the natural history of the destroyer. If the investigation were carried out, it would be a most valuable work, and all insects to be found in the garden, or orchard, are not injurious to the crops. Some of them feed off the plants—the latter the fruit-eaters; and by having the two classes designated, the cultivator will be able to distinguish between his friends and his foes, and thus, by governing in his business of extermination, whenever practicable.

We are not sufficiently acquainted with the subject to state the advantages of the investigation of Mr. Glover in detail, but merely repeat what we learned in a brief and rapid perusal of his work, although he has but slightly commenced it, meets with warm approval from intelligent cultivators of the earth. While the Agricultural department of the Patent Office anticipates valuable results. Experiments with insects, and the manner of their extermination, will be a most valuable work, and all insects to be found in the garden, or orchard, are not injurious to the crops. Some of them feed off the plants—the latter the fruit-eaters; and by having the two classes designated, the cultivator will be able to distinguish between his friends and his foes, and thus, by governing in his business of extermination, whenever practicable.

At the time of our visit, Mr. Glover was busily engaged making his drawings of insects.—The result of his labors will be given to the world in the next year's edition of the Patent Office Report, and will prove one of the most interesting and valuable articles to be found in that document.

CHARLESTON, Aug. 28.—A private letter of late date from Havana, brought by the steamer Governor Dudley, states that the rapid progress of the insurrection in Spain forms the chief topic of conversation here and causes great excitement. There are rumors of a proclamation of an outbreak and insurrection in Cuba. The people seem to be ripe for it and are less respectful towards the mother government. The Captain General's proclamation does not receive the respect extended towards his previous proclamation. Many of the most wealthy families apprehending trouble, are preparing to leave the island and take up their abode here and other parts of the States. Trouble is certainly brewing.

A DEMAND FOR AMERICAN STOCKS.—The New York Tribune says: 'The Baltic brings a fair amount of orders for American securities, a larger proportion than usual being for shares. The writers of the commercial letters, by her, call most attention to the necessity of a protection of the defaulting officers of the railroads, in order to inspire confidence abroad in the general honesty of the mercantile community.' They speak also of the baseness of the panic we are enduring, and evince their confidence by ordering bonds and shares. A large number of bonds given for the purpose of about $200,000,000, were held and sold at a fair price.

Apprehended insurrection in Cuba.—A private letter of late date from Havana, brought by the steamer Governor Dudley, states that the rapid progress of the insurrection in Spain forms the chief topic of conversation here and causes great excitement. There are rumors of a proclamation of an outbreak and insurrection in Cuba. The people seem to be ripe for it and are less respectful towards the mother government. The Captain General's proclamation does not receive the respect extended towards his previous proclamation. Many of the most wealthy families apprehending trouble, are preparing to leave the island and take up their abode here and other parts of the States. Trouble is certainly brewing.

Painted Negroes in Kansas.—A letter from Kansas to a paper in Oswego, N. Y., is a curious statement in regard to the process of turning out artificial negroes. He says the emigrants from the Southern States, generally persons of limited means, with neither slaves nor other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, and without any other property, in order to secure a precarious support, have been lately employed by the Government to paint their faces black, as to resemble genuine Africans. To all comers from the States, these painted negroes are slaves, and as such, satisfied with their condition, and with the prospect of being freed by the Government, without transference in any way, of

S,
are:
ts,
that is quality,
Nu 3 d it is pends,

